And on the 70th day ... success!

The 69-day underground ordeal at the San José copper and gold mine in Chile reached its end last night after the last of 33 trapped miners was hauled up in a cage through a narrow hole drilled through 2,000 feet of rock.

More charges for James

Police confirm warrant issued for Calgary Hitmen founder Graham James ▶ Winnipeg police release refers to 'complaints of historic sexual assaults'

The lawyer for convicted sex offender Graham James says the former junior hockey coach faces several new charges of alleged sexual assault dating from the late 1970s through the early 1990s.

Evan Roitenberg refused yesterday to reveal whether he had spoken to James, but did say: "Mr. James has indicated nothing but a willingness to co-operate with the police in their investigation. That hasn't changed."

"What it means is I'm going to be discussing with the police and-or the Crown's office how best to proceed at this point," Roitenberg said. "I'm hoping to have those discussions sooner rather than later."

Police spokesman Const. Jason Michalyshen refused to provide more details about the new charges.

Michalyshen had said earlier in the day that police did not want to do anything to jeopardize the investigation. He wouldn't say how many alleged victims might have been contacted by police. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Missing Texas teens found in Calgary

Two teenagers missing from Texas for more than a week have been located in Calgary, allegedly brandishing weapons in their pick-up truck.

Insp. James Hardy said police were called to the Foothills Industrial Park after calls about a suspicious vehicle and authorities quickly learned the white pickup with Texas plates was linked to a missing 17-year-old male and 14-year-old female.

"It was a surprise, we didn't even know ... these teens were missing and there was no indication they were heading north," Hardy said.

Police discovered three loaded handguns and two rifles from the truck. The teens are reportedly co-operating with police as investigators work to determine how they entered the country. Calgary police, Canada Border Services Agency and American authorities are working together.

AHS, Networc settle

After months of legal battles, Alberta Health Services and Networc Health announced yesterday they've reached an out-of-court settlement.

Executive vice-president and CFO of AHS Chris Mazurkewich said the details of the agreement are confidential.

All orthopedic surgeries from the Health Resource Centre, which is owned by Networc, will now be conducted at the Foothills Medical Centre, according to Mazurkewich.

Ad ruffling some feathers

Image is displayed at the Aritzia store in the Chinook Centre There are several other unrelated art images on the controversial display

It wasn't intended to offend, but it has.

An artistic image depicting a bird being held by its wings has ruffled some feathers amongst fashion and animal lovers who believe the image can be misconstrued as animal abuse.

Rob King was shopping when he noticed the image outside of the Aritzia store advertising their move to a bigger location.

"I had to look twice. It looks like the bird is being strangled," King said.

Aritzia spokesperson Candy Soo said the image is art and open to interpretation.

"It's being held by its wings and at no time was the bird hurt or harmed. We didn't intend to create controversy," Soo said.

People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals (PETA) spokesperson Jane Dollinger believes it was meant to shock.

"The company might want to rethink the ad. A young woman is more likely to come in if she thinks 'aw' than if she thinks 'ew,'" she added.

City fashion expert Tory Read said she doesn't understand what the image has to do with fashion.

"I think it's completely irrelevant to the product they're selling."

SHELBY BORYS/FOR METRO CALGARY

EXCERPTS FROM JOE CONNELLY INTERVIEW

'I'M NOT THROWING IN THE TOWEL BY ANY MEANS'

Mike McCourt: I assume that in the circumstances — the trends being revealed by the polls — you at the very least with your staff are conducting a very difficult analysis of where you are at or not at. And I assume a painful decision is at hand for you.
Everyone likes to talk about what my numbers are. I would like to talk a bit about the undecided out there. I've seen 40, I've seen 50, I've seen 60 per cent, and I believe that's because media ... keep presenting the big three that are out there and, as the song goes, they still haven't found what they're looking for, Calgarians. I'm not throwing in the towel by any means. That would be premature.

You talk about the billion dollars you delivered for your ward; that was in the midst of a recession. Delivering a million bucks means you're spending a million bucks. Did you overreach a bit, Mr. Connelly, in the economic circumstance that reached this city in that uncertain time?
Absolutely not, Mike. I've got a background in finance. I've got a bachelor's of commerce from the University of Calgary. This money was available.

That's what they said about the bridge: "The money's there, so let's go and piddle it away."
The reality is, Mike, that I am the one that uncovered the bridge. And I am the one who took it to the media — and the guy that took it to my peers. I'm the guy who took it to the province to try and kill the bridge. Unfortunately, I didn't get the support to do that, but what Calgarians need to know is that I'm the guy that uncovered that.

No. 1 issue: "Community integrity and protection."
Why run? "The issue that prompted me to action was the Shaw-Nee Slopes Golf Course concern."

Who's running for alderman in Ward 14?

Richard Dur

Self-employed with a Calgary communications firm specializing in campaigns.
No. 1 issue: "Eliminate wasteful spending."
Why run? "To bring common sense conservatism to city hall."

Peter Demong

Business owner.
No. 1 issue: "Accountability, cost control and transparency."
Why run? "If I ran my business the way city hall has been run, I would be bankrupt or in jail or both. There are far too many career politicians, and I want to make term limits a reality. I would just like to see some accountability, cost control and transparency."

Shawn Kao

Director, information technology.
No. 1 issue: "Balancing fiscal responsibility with future infrastructure requirements and other city programs."
Why run? "I believe we need to have people who want to do the job, not just have the job. My wide-spectrum skill set, as well as my even-handed personality, will give city council someone who researches all issues, establishes two-way communications with constituents and works well with others."

Linda Fox-Mellway

Ward 14 alderman.
No. 1 issue: Infrastructure
Why run? "I still have so many coals in the fire and things to get done. There are lots of community priorities that I need to come back and get things done for them."

Ken Gerelus

Baby boomer.
No. 1 issue: "If you don't have a GPS unit you're not going to find your way through Calgary ... There's very little money, and they're not addressing our transportation needs in the southeast."
Why run? "I met the candidates and was disappointed with their qualifications. Instead of complaining, I decided to run."

Bill Tummonds

Butcher.
No. 1 issue: "Transportation; specifically the SE LRT and ring road, and MacLeod Trail improvements south of Anderson Road."
Why run? "After 15 years with Linda Fox-Mellway, it's time for a change at city hall. Ward 14 needs new and fresh ideas to help the city grow."

Transit the talk of Ward 2 public forum

- Four candidates are vying for Ward 2 alderman
- Last night was the last of 15 citizen forums

KRISTA SYLVESTER/METRO CALGARY

▶ Ward 2 candidates speak at a forum last night.

It used to take Marci D'Souza only 10 minutes to get to work from her Royal Oak-area home, but since the city closed Rocky Ridge Road it takes her at least 20 and usually 40.

D'Souza was just one of a handful of northwest residents at the Ward 2 Civic-Camp citizen's forum last night with transportation issues — particularly the aftermath of the road closure — and transit on the forefront of their minds. With the road closure, there are only two exits out of the community, residents said.

"Ever since they closed that road it's been a disaster, and it's not getting any better. It's frustrating for so many people in the community," D'Souza said, a sentiment echoed by many.

Incumbent Ward 2 alderman Gord Lowe agreed traffic congestion continues to be the ward's biggest issue, but he also said he hears a lot about transit, too.

"I think a transit system is only as good as its shuttle-bus services, and that's what we need to get up to par to get people using the system," Lowe added.

Another interesting ward fact has Royal Oak leaving Ward 1 to join Ward 2 neighbours, Rocky Ridge, something constituents will have to get used to.

Matthew Hughes said he believes Ward 2 will fall back into the hands of Lowe, and he's used to Ward 1 alderman Dale Hodges.

"It will be a bit weird at first for sure, but I guess we'll just have to see what happens," he said.

Trust fund set up for assaulted Good Samaritan

- Police lay charges against suspect in the incident

Kindness breeds more kindness.

A Calgary woman has opened up a trust account in support of the victim who stopped to help a man earlier this week and was punched in the face and had her car stolen.

"I know this young lady and she has a big heart. I'm very proud of her for stopping and trying to help and I wish there were many people like her," Masha Mashtakova said.

The victim was assaulted in the city's northwest early Monday morning when she tried to help a man who was involved in a car accident. The man allegedly punched her in the face and then stole her car.

"I just want to help her any way I can. She needs to have dentist work because the guy broke her front teeth and her car needs to be fixed, if possible," Mashtakova added.

Calgary police Det. Asif Rashid said the victim is trying to cope.

"She is very traumatized because she lives in the community and she was trying to be a Good Samaritan. She suffered significant injuries requiring a dentist," he said.

Police no longer believe alcohol was a factor and said the suspect seemed to be in a "heightened emotional state."

Police have laid several charges against Abdulhafid Mohamed Hfuda, 21.

Feds aim to reduce bear deaths

The federal government hopes train whistles and fences will help reduce the number of grizzly bears that are killed along Canadian Pacific railway tracks in Banff National Park.

There have been a dozen grizzlies killed and a half-dozen cubs orphaned in the park in the past decade.

Earlier this year, Alberta reclassified the species as threatened because of their rapidly dwindling numbers in the province.

"We will support warning sounds on trains, provide escape routes for bears once they realize the train is coming," Federal Environment Minister Jim Prentice said yesterday. THE CANADIAN PRESS

While mayoral candidate Bob Hawkesworth has said he's joining Barb Higgins's campaign team, this may not impact Higgins's shot at winning, according to one expert.

The two held a press conference at Higgins's campaign headquarters yesterday where Hawkesworth announced his support for his former rival.

"I will spend the rest of this campaign volunteering on your campaign committee," Hawkesworth told Higgins.

"As we've talked across the city at various forums, I've felt that there's a real alignment in our policies."

Higgins said she welcomed the new addition to her team.

"I've watched, as many Calgarians have, as Bob has dedicated so much of his life to public service," she said. "He's a statesman and that's what I've admired."

However, the support from Hawkesworth may not impact voters' opinions, said Lisa Young, a political scientist from the University of Calgary.

"Certainly, in a game where it's all about who can claim the momentum, it gives her a little sense of momentum," said Young.

"I don't think it's a huge deal one way or another, but it's certainly not going to do her any harm."

Details

- The two candidates have "agreed to disagree" when it comes to the airport tunnel issue.
- Hawkesworth said this is not how he wanted the race to go. "You get into politics and you're never sure what the outcome will be, and this isn't the way I had envisioned it, but that's OK," he said.
- He said all his remaining campaign funds will remain his and will not go to Higgins.
- Hawkesworth's name will still be on the ballot come election day.

Kids' lottery calls out for more cash

A provincewide lottery that raises money for crisis care and family support is in dire need of more support.

The 4Kids Lottery, which has raised $4.5 million for the Big Brother and Big Sisters of Calgary, Edmonton and surrounding areas and the Children's Cottage Society of Calgary since 1994 has only sold 57 per cent of tickets in its annual lottery with only one week remaining before its Oct. 22 deadline.

"The 4Kids Lottery is a crucial piece of the fundraising that enables our important work to continue. When you purchase a ticket for our lottery, you make an immediate impact on the lives of children in our community, said Sharon Moore, executive director for the Big Brothers and Big Sisters of Calgary and area. More and more women self-managing investment portfolios

More and more female investors are choosing to manage either all or a portion of their investments.

"We know today that women are very well educated, have good careers and they're solid income earners," says Karen Chung, manager of RBC Direct Investing Centres.

According to numbers from Statistics Canada, Canadian women in 2008 earned an estimated $277 billion.

Statistics from RBC Direct Investing have found that one out of every three of its clients is female, the average woman starts investing for retirement at the age of 31 and women 45 and over are most likely to have an online investing account.

The changes in women's lives is an important influence on how they invest, says Chung.

"Women's investment needs and their risk profile can be affected by major life changes or major life events, things such as marriage or divorce or the birth of a child or the death of a spouse," she says. "What we tend to see is women set clear goals either in anticipation or in response to those major life events."

Women also tend to be longer term investors and longer term thinkers, says Chung.

They also appreciate what RBC Direct Investing offers to its clients. In a recent RBC Direct Investing poll of Canadian online investors women agreed that online investing is very convenient (95%), it saves money on fees and commissions (87%) and it saves time (89%).

To help its clients, RBC Direct Investing has numerous tools to educate potential investors, such as the Six Key Steps to Investing. This guide educates clients about goal setting, investor profile and asset mix, understanding investment choices, building a portfolio, taking action and monitoring investments.

"It's important to understand the basics before anything else," says Chung.

Recently, RBC Direct Investing also introduced three additional tools - Manage My Goals, Analyze and Rebalance, and the Performance page - to help people build, manage and monitor their portfolios.

But for people who aren't quite ready to make the leap into investing, RBC Direct Investing has a practice account option where people can work with $100,000 of practice money to gain experience before putting real money on the line.

Final trapped miner surfaces, Chile goes wild

In nearby Copiapo, about 3,000 people gathered to watch rescue on big screen, wave Chilean flags

The last of the Chilean miners, the foreman who held them together when they were feared lost, was raised from the depths of the earth last night — a joyous ending to a 69-day ordeal that riveted the world. No one has ever been trapped so long and survived.

Luis Urzua ascended smoothly through 2,000 feet of rock, completing a 22-hour rescue operation that unfolded with remarkable speed and flawless execution. Before a jubilant crowd of about 2,000 people, he became the 33rd miner to be rescued.

"We have done what the entire world was waiting for," he told Chilean President Sebastian Pinera immediately after his rescue. "The 70 days that we fought so hard were not in vain. We had strength, we had spirit, we wanted to fight, we wanted to fight for our families, and that was the greatest thing."

The president told him: "You are not the same, and the country is not the same after this. You were an inspiration. Go hug your wife and your daughter." With Urzua by his side, he led the crowd in singing the national anthem.

Rescue

The rescue exceeded expectations every step of the way.

- Officials first said it might be four months before they could get the men out; it turned out to be 69 days and about 8 hours.
- Once the escape tunnel was finished, they estimated it would take 36 to 48 hours to get all the miners to the surface. That got faster as the operation went along, and all the men were safely above ground in 22 hours, 37 minutes.

TV rescue show kept the world spellbound

Global village watches a 'little modern miracle' at Chile mine ◐ 'For once, it's a story with a good ending'

Plane crashes, terror threats, oil spills.

The TV news diet is often dire, rarely joyous.

And then there were the pictures yesterday of brave, dignified miners who had been trapped beneath the ground for more than two months being brought to the surface, to breathe fresh air and to hug their loved ones.

Communications technology — including live video from within the mine — turned the entire world into a global village hoping for the safe release of men they did not know and would probably never meet.

"It feels like we're all there with them even though we're so far away in London," said Jose Torra, 34, as the rescue unfolded.

"For once it is a story with a good ending."

In New York City, Mark and Susan Vannucci, a landscaper and a nurse, watched the rescue on a TV at a Times Square restaurant.

"It's a heartwarming story. It's family values, it's leadership, it's everything that we should have here," Mark Vannucci said.

His wife said: "Instead of those guys in the mine turning on each other, they worked together, they bonded."

"It's a miracle, a wonderful event," said Bernard Carr, a mathematics and astronomy professor chatting with other passengers at London's Liverpool Street train station.

In Germany, Foreign Minister Guido Westerwelle said on TV: "What's happening here is a little modern miracle."

Canada helps

- Canadian companies have taken part in the rescue.
- Calgary-based Precision Drilling Corp. says it's proud of the role its crews played in digging a hole to reach the men.
- Atco Structures and Logistics sent portable buildings to the mine site.

EMOTION

Chileans rejoice in Canada

They gathered in churches, community centres and living rooms across Canada to watch the rescue of their brethren trapped a Chilean mine.

The miracle story is one Chilean-Canadians say their homeland was longing for.

"It's been a pretty emotional year for Chile ... with the earthquake, and with this now," said Pablo Vivanco of Toronto.

"Everyone is quite relieved and quite happy that there's finally a good story in all of this."

Jose Astorgasay of Winnipeg was sitting with his family in the living room watching anxiously as the first rescuer was lowered into the shaft.

"I'm very nervous, very nervous. From now on everything can happen," he said.

Sandra Azocar of Edmonton's Chilean-Canadian Cultural Association said: "I think everybody's just glued to their TVs, because the majority of Chileans have satellite TV. In Chile, nothing else is on TV except the rescue of the miners."

U.S., NATO hope talks lead to political reconciliation with the insurgency

U.S. and NATO forces are helping top Taliban leaders sit down for talks with the U.S.-backed government in Afghanistan as a step toward political reconciliation with the insurgency, a senior NATO official said yesterday.

Some talks between the elected government and the insurgents have taken place in Kabul, the official said, where Taliban leaders would not dare to travel without NATO approval.

The account was the most detailed yet of the U.S. and NATO role in clandestine talks that officials have said have been happening for several weeks.

The government of Afghan President Hamid Karzai has acknowledged some high-level contact with the Taliban, a homegrown Islamist insurgency seeking to displace Karzai's secular government.

Hurricane Paula veers north to Cuba

20 Cancun has cancelled more than 20 domestic and international flights due to Hurricane Paula

Hurricane Paula roared off Mexico's top vacation resort of Cancun yesterday without immediate reports of major damage, and it was projected to veer into western Cuba's cigar-producing country.

The Category two storm, with maximum sustained winds of 160 kph, swiped at the island of Cozumel and Isla Mujeres overnight during its northward trek.

The U.S. National Hurricane Center said Paula was expected to shift to the northeast and weaken slightly on a course carrying it into western Cuba by last night or early today. The Center said a tropical storm watch has been issued along a swath through the Florida Keys.

Cuba's Civil Defence warned the population in Pinar del Rio and Isla de la Juventud to watch out for heavy rains and flooding.

There were no immediate reports of major problems in Cancun or other resort areas.

Quintana Roo state officials said they could guarantee the security of all 27,000 tourists currently in the state during the October off-season.

Man denies raping five of his daughters

A New Jersey man accused of raping five of his daughters and impregnating three says the charges against him are "all lies."

Under questioning by his lawyer yesterday, the man said claims by his former wife and daughter that they were routinely abused or sexually assaulted can't be true. He said such actions would have drawn the attention of neighbours or police.

He has yet to be questioned by the prosecution.

The former wife and a daughter who says she bore him a child have testified that he told them he wanted to create "pure" family bloodlines.

The man has pleaded not guilty.

Fewer students happy with U.S. president: Poll

▶ Heather Smith is president of Rock The Vote, an organization whose mission is to build the political power of young people — such as students.

The Obamamania that gripped U.S. college campuses two years ago is gone.

An Associated Press-mtvU poll has found college students cooling in their support for President Barack Obama.

It's a fresh sign of trouble for Democrats struggling to rekindle enthusiasm among many of these newest voters for the crucial elections in three weeks.

Forty-four per cent of students approve of the job Obama is doing as president, while 27 per cent are unhappy with his stewardship, according to the survey conducted late last month.

That's a significant drop from the 60 per cent who gave the president high marks in a May 2009 poll.

Only 15 per cent had a negative opinion then.

Experts say many students are unhappy with Obama's handling of the economy and the war in Afghanistan. There's also frustration with his inability to deliver on his promise to change Washington.

Loonie on the rise

One financial analyst sees loonie rising to $1.15 US next year ◆ Three years ago loonie flew to $1.10 US

The Canadian dollar moved close to parity with the U.S. dollar yesterday, closing up 0.57 of a cent at 99.52 cents US after going as high as 99.89 cents.

Since last reaching parity in April, the loonie has approached the psychological barrier several times, only to fall back each time.

But Scotiabank currency analyst Camilla Sutton said this time may be different, given that the U.S. dollar continues to face pressure and has been falling against most of the world's currencies as the American economy remains sluggish.

The most recent appreciation follows the release of minutes from U.S. Federal Reserve officials that suggest the American central bank, which already has a zero interest policy rate, to further ease conditions.

The loonie is also propped up by strong commodity prices.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

PAUL CHIASSON/THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ Analysts say any combination of a strong economic indicator for Canada or weak signal from the U.S. could take the loonie to parity with the U.S. dollar and beyond.

End federal transfers to provinces: Bernier

PAUL CHIASSON/THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ Maxime Bernier

Conservative Quebec MP Maxime Bernier is calling for an end to federal transfers to provinces, saying the current system violates the sprit of the Constitution's separation of powers.

In a speech to the Albany Club in Toronto yesterday, Bernier said the federal government "intervenes massively in provincial jurisdictions, and in particular in health and education, two areas where it has no constitutional legitimacy whatsoever."

He blamed this intrusion on federal spending power. Bernier, a former cabinet minister, said it's time to bring back balanced federalism envisioned by the founders of Confederation, who never intended for Ottawa to encroach on provincial jurisdiction as it does today.

BEARING DOWN WITH THE BRUINS

He says ...

JOHN MAZEROLLE

I like pretty much any sport, even the fringe ones like lawn darts or walking or Canadian football. But my one true sports love is hockey.

It doesn't need to be the playoffs or even a big game for me to be interested. I can watch Florida play Phoenix in mid-January and I'll be satisfied.

But if you want to see me "literally explode" (as the sports anchors like to say) it needs to be a Boston Bruins game.

My dedication to the Bruins is such that I get severely annoyed when people ask, "So now that the B's are eliminated, who are you cheering for?"

Nobody.

The question doesn't even make sense to me. Once the Bruins are out, I cheer for plane crashes. If Montreal and Toronto ever hold an outdoor game in Tenerife, I'll watch with great interest.

I do have a pecking order of teams I cheer against.

I hate Montreal most because that's what is written in the Hockey Guide To Fandom, then San Jose for reasons too arcane to go into here, then Philadelphia because they are jerks.

After that, I hope whatever team I know the least fans of wins, so I might avoid the inevitable summertime gloating. Go, Columbus, go.

"It means everything and it means nothing — all of the joy and fear with none of the real-life risk."

Hockey is great because it gives people in this country something to talk about.

The lost season a few years ago wasn't sad because of the loss of the National Hockey League, which doesn't know its ice from its elbow, but because it left us with nothing to discuss.

In the depths of winter, it's nice that downtown Toronto and northern Alberta have something in common. It's like talking about Betty White with your grandmother so you can avoid discussing how often you've used that rosary she made you.

And for me, personally, I like hockey (and sports in general) because it gives me an excuse to be irrational. I spend the rest of my life depressed by religion, scared of nationalism, and pissed off by mysticism.

But along comes hockey and I can be completely consumed by joy or anger or fear, all because I like the team with the "B" on its sweater.

It makes no sense, which is what makes it fun. It means everything and it means nothing — all of the joy and fear with none of the real-life risk. What could be better?

Well, the Montreal Canadiens literally exploding, maybe. But that's it.

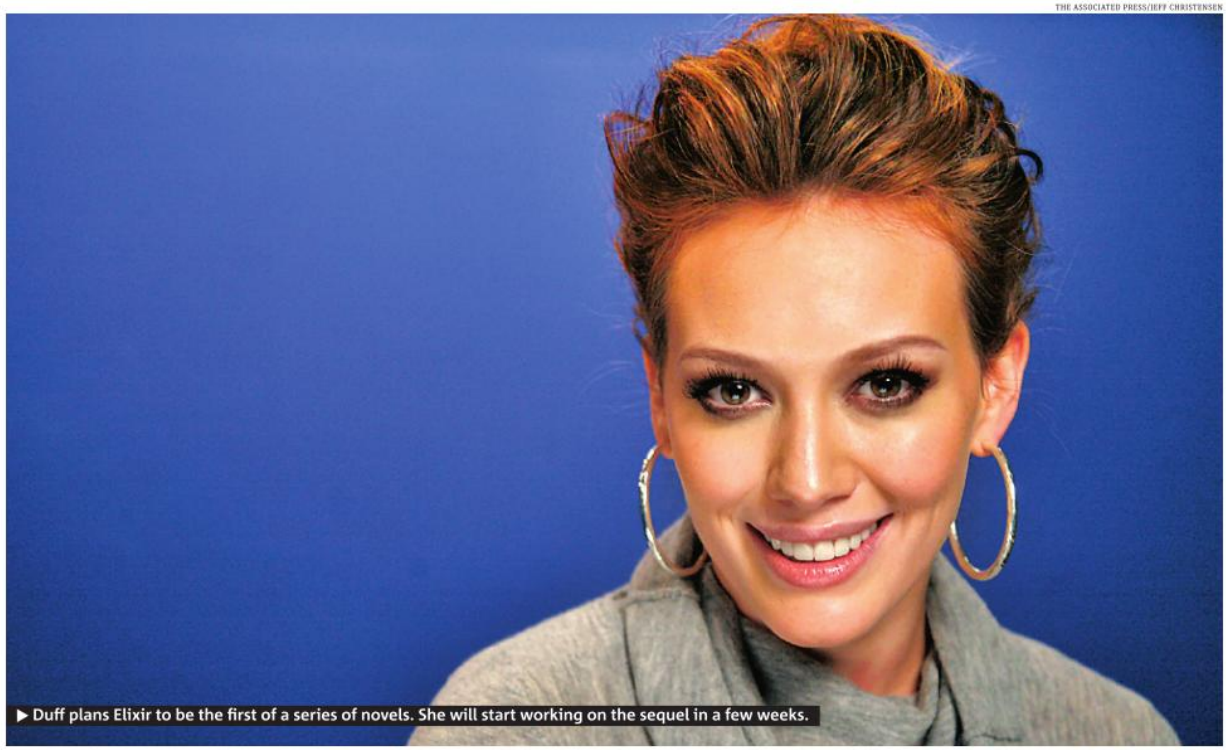
Hilary Duff — romance novelist

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS/JEFF CHRISTENSEN



▶ Duff plans Elixir to be the first of a series of novels. She will start working on the sequel in a few weeks.

Young adults have always been Hilary's fan base Now she's reaching them in a new way by writing a romance-adventure novel

Hilary Duff may be a recently married young woman of 23, but when it comes to books she's not quite ready to grow up.

``I love reading young adult books even though I'm a little older than the set demographic for YA,'' she said Tuesday. ``I love adventure. I relate to girl characters, love, finding yourself and breaking out of the mould that people put you in.''

It makes sense then that the actress and singer would decide to write her first novel ``Elixir'' for the younger set.

Duff may have a feel for her reading audience, too, from knowing her viewing audience. Duff played Lizzie MacGuire for two seasons on the Disney Channel from 2001-2004. Fans who watched her on TV may also want to check out her book.

"Then I thought: 'I'm open for a new challenge. I'm going to try to write a book."
HILARY DUFF

``This idea just kept coming to me and building in my head. I thought 'What am I gonna do with this?''

Duff has had a busy year. Besides writing, she also wed pro hockey player Mike Comrie in August.

She says publishing deadlines can be more stressful than planning a wedding.

``It's very similar ... I couldn't even choose which one is harder. I guess I'd say the book.''

Book awards ignore popular contender

It's the Great American Snub.

Jonathan Franzen's Freedom, the year's most highly praised and talked about literary novel, was not among the fiction finalists announced Wednesday for the U.S. National Book Awards.

Nine years ago, Franzen won for The Corrections and his latest book was a sensation even before its release, the subject of a Time magazine cover story and rave reviews and so in demand that President Obama obtained an early copy.

Oprah Winfrey picked Freedom for her book club, even though Franzen's ambivalence in 2001 over her choosing The Corrections had led her to cancel his appearance on her show.

Nominees on Wednesday included Peter Carey, whose Parrot and Olivier in America was a runner-up for the Man Booker Prize, and such well-regarded authors as Nicole Krauss (Great House) and Lionel Shriver (So Much for That).

The book awards also welcomed a rock star, Patti Smith, a nonfiction contender for Just Kids, a memoir about her friendship with photographer Robert Mapplethorpe; and an attorney, poetry finalist Monica Youn (Ignatz).

Winners, each of whom receive $10,000, will be announced at a ceremony Nov. 17, hosted by humorist Andy Borowitz.

Franzen's book wasn't the only notable work not selected. Among the nonnominees were such novelists as Karl Marlantes and Tom Rachman.

"Obviously, Freedom is the big book of the year, but the question is what the National Book Awards are supposed to honour," said Harold Augenbraum, executive director of the National Book Foundation, a non-profit organization that presents the awards. "We tell the judges just to look at the books and that outside chatter is not important. We go with that every year."

Established in 1950, the book awards are chosen in each category by five-member panels of fellow writers, with judges changing each year.

As he reminded us before his incarceration though, his steady flow of releases would never be jeopardized. February's Rebirth was a long-delayed, unwelcome renaissance that found Weezy fumbling with clichéd, crunchy rap-rock riffs and an overflow of Autotune. His devoted then should find some solace in I Am Not A Human Being, if not for being mostly Autotune-less than for knowing that some of it was originally written for Tha Carter IV. That he has Drake by his side for three cuts and another with Nicki Minaj is Wayne playing it smart and recognizing the value of his Young Money protegés. Drizzy's Right Above It and Nicki's What's Wrong With Them are both rousing triumphs destined to kick off the Weezy Weekend that follows his release. The biggest surprise comes in I'm Single, which finds the mentor taking a page from his student, spitting something smooth over some woozy R&B. Despite being a scattershot listen with as many misses as hits, I Am Not A Human Being does its job a satiating gap-filler till we get that Carter IV he's promising for 2011. Outstanding track: Right Above It

Belle and Sebastian
Album: Write About Love
Label: Matador
●●●●

On their seventh studio album, Belle and Sebastian carry on with the blithe indie pop that made 2006's The Love Pursuit such a lovely departure. Write About Love eschews another directional change to focus on a more AM gold sound, complemented by sweeping strings and plucky horn sections. As with any recording by these tweeful Scots, however, the intricate arrangements are only the cherry on top of lead songwriter Stuart Murdoch's shrewd storytelling and bright hooks. Outstanding track: River Runs Deep

Antony and the Johnsons
Album: Swanlights
Label: Nonesuch
●●●●

It seems impossible that Antony Hegarty (Antony and the Johnsons when working with collaborators) would be such a captivating performer. He sounds like Rufus Wainwright combating a bad case of delirium tremens. Still, as fourth full-length Swanlights' petals unfold, we learn to appreciate how his odd structures and distinctive voice. Swanlights' intricate intertwining is strikingly dynamic and inspiringly inventive. Outstanding track: Swanlights

KEITH CARMAN

Darius Rucker
Album: Charleston, SC 1966
Label: Capitol/EMI
●●●

Hootie & The Blowfish is probably the punch line to some music joke, but there's nothing funny about Darius Rucker's new career. The band's lead singer is a big shot once again — his 2008 country disc went platinum in the U.S. The album is loaded with adult contemporary country tunes, including the family-focused Might Get Lucky that the masses eat up. Outstanding track: Nothing Like L.A.

BRYAN BORZYKOWSKI

Sufjan Stevens
Album: The Age of Adz
Label: Asthmatic Kitty
●●●●

If you're still waiting for Sufjan Stevens to record another disc about an American state, keep waiting. The singer-songwriter's last state-related project seems to be his big hit, 2006's Illinois. But after hearing his latest you won't care what he's writing about. The Age of Adz is a mind-blowing collection of thickly layered guitars, electo sounds and choir-like harmonies. Don't let the noise fool you, this is a brilliant pop album. Outstanding track: Get Real Get Right

BRYAN BORZYKOWSKI

PS I Love You
Album: Meet Me At The Muster Station
Label: Paper Bag
●●●●●

The debut album by Kingston, Ontario's PS I Love You comes riding a tidal wave of hype but for once the machine doesn't lie. In only a half-hour, the duo make their convincing argument by cohering Paul Saulnier's pained yelp and transcendent guitar licks with Ben Nelson's galvanic timekeeping, along with great songwriting. Outstanding track: Butterflies & Boners.

Joining the family business

Michael Jackson's nephew showed a passion for music at a young age • Melody the key to his album • Inspired by Prince, Billy Idol & his uncle

▶ Singer-songwriter Austin Brown says his album will blend classic soul and 1980s pop with contemporary dance beats.

Over a decade ago, when Michael Jackson was working on what would become his final album, a young producer named Rodney Jerkins set up shop in the dance room of the singer's Neverland Ranch. A youngster approached Jerkins with a bold swagger.

"I'm going to work with you. We're going to work together on my album," Austin "Auggie" Brown told Jerkins, who flashed back to his own introduction to Jackson as a teenager.

"I'm looking at this 13-year-old kid and I'm seeing all this ambition and it reminded me of myself the first time I met his uncle," Jerkins recalls. "I believe that when you speak things into existence, it happens. ... I said, 'I'll be ready when you're ready.'"

Brown — the son of Jackson's older sister Maureen, known as Rebbie — is now 24, and has been working at Jerkins' Los Angeles studio for months to create his debut album, 85. He's a serious and passionate student of music and dance, with handsome, distinctively angular facial features that recall his uncle in the Thriller period. Surrounded by musicians in his formative years, "I was a sponge," he said.

"My brother-in-law Rex, who taught me how to produce, he would show me how to play like a Janet song or something. And then I'd go to her and be like 'Watch this!'" he said. "I wanted to learn and to learn the songs. Play the songs, and then get the reaction from playing it and show people. I wanted to figure out the music, not just be around the music."

Perhaps the only surprise is that Brown didn't enter the family business sooner.

"It was really important to me to develop," Brown said in an interview alongside Jerkins, with his mother looking on quietly. "First and foremost, music is a privilege. It's not an entitlement for me. So I wanted to get better and get to the point where I felt like I was ready. And I did it on my own."

To be sure, Brown first hit a stage when he was 3 at one of his mother's concerts in Japan. It was family connections that led him to talented dance coaches in Las Vegas and to Jerkins, and family connections that prompted interest from People magazine, Access Hollywood and MTV even before the release of his first song. But Brown makes it clear that he wants to succeed based on his own talent.

"My last name is Brown. And you know, I can't help where I come from, but I love where I come from," he said. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fans pen Glee guide

Both Toronto writers had had fan blogs for the show

Rachel Berry might not always be the most likable character on Glee.

But the Toronto-based authors of Don't Stop Believin': The Unofficial Guide to Glee (ECW Press) say she's the character they most identify with.

"I was totally a Rachel Berry in high school," says Erin Balser, 26. "I was so obnoxious and driven and dedicated and over the top, and I didn't have a lot of friends."

Co-author Suzanne Gardner, 25, says she also relates to Rachel, as well as fellow Glee-clubber Tina.

"My high school me has a lot of Rachel and Tina in me. There's the shy side of Tina, but there's also a lot of Rachel's go-get-it-ness — even when that's completely ridiculous, and maybe a little big headed," says Gardner.

The show's relatable characters are partially what inspired Balser and Gardner to pen the Glee guide, which includes cast biographies, episode synopses, behind-the-scenes tidbits and explanations of the pop culture references that pepper the show.

The book also includes star ratings for each episode in categories of drama, comedy and music, "so people know if it's going to be a fun episode or an emotionally heavy one," says Balser.

It also examines similarities between Glee and Popular, another show from Glee co-creator Ryan Murphy.

Balser, an associate producer at CBC, and Gardner, a web writer for Toronto mayoral candidate Joe Pantalone, did not know each other before writing the book.

Both had Glee fan blogs (Balser runs Glee Dork, while Suzanne writes one called Gleeks United).

Waltz upset with Arquette

Jasmine Waltz is reportedly "shocked" to find herself in the middle of the Courteney Cox and David Arquette breakup news after Arquette admitted to a tryst with the bartender on Howard Stern's radio show, according to Radar Online.

"Jasmine was just shocked when she heard David had gone on Howard Stern and told what she considered to be private details of their relationship," a source says. "She had no idea he would sleep with her and tell everyone." METRO

Richie blasts paparazzi for following kids

Actress says photographers go to daughter's school ◐ Worried about safety of hers and other kids ◐ Vows to do background checks

Nicole Richie is so fed up with photographers camped outside her daughter's school that she sent paparazzi agency X17 a nasty letter telling them to watch themselves.

"I am going to do a background check on each and every person that I see there. For the safety of my children and others," her letter reads, according to Hollyscoop.

"The last time I did a check on your staff, I found they had no license. Remember that day? The day that ended with a car accident and me in a hospital? If I find out anyone has a suspended, restricted or invalid license, I will have them thrown in jail before they can pick up the phone and call their lawyers."

Richie ended the letter just as strongly: "These are young children and you should know better. X17, you are irresponsible and repulsive. Consider this a warning."

Richie and her partner Joel Madden, from the band Good Charlotte, have two young children. METRO

Lohan's rehab escape attempt foiled?

Lindsay Lohan reportedly got into trouble in rehab recently when she and a fellow patient tried to escape the Betty Ford Center to get soda from a vending machine in a neighbouring hospital, according to Radar Online.

But the plan fell apart when Lohan's accomplice's clothing became caught on a fence. "Lindsay and her co-conspirator were forced to give it up and flag down a volunteer, who was crossing the center's grounds on a golf cart," a source says. Making sense of the coming styles

One month, four cities, and umpteen catwalks later, the changes in the air are palpable

KENYA HUNT
STYLE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN LONDON

If one thing can be said about this past month's spring/summer '11 shows, it's that it was rife with sudden change.

Forget about all the '50s stuff you're wearing right now. Next season, tall, platform wedge shoes will replace the kitten heel, which has been having such a moment for autumn/winter '10. Floaty peasant-style dresses that could have come straight out of your mom's closet in 1976 will make those Mad Men-inspired skirts look like old news. And all that blush and camel you've been wearing this fall? Colours will be brighter by the time the summer comes — a lot brighter (think fuchsia, purple, orange and neon green) — and often come in stripes or blocked patterns.

But hues and dress shapes aren't the only things changing at a dizzying rate. Significant, long-term trends are emerging as well. For one, an increasing number of designers are paying less and less attention to the seasons they're designing for. Much of the clothing showed for spring/summer '11 could also work for colder weather. The looks at Prada, for example, came accessorized with fur stoles in electric, saturated colours that would be perfect for the coming holiday season. Meanwhile, Burberry Prorsum, showed leather biker jackets that screamed chilly-day-in-October, rather than, say, balmy-afternoon-in-June.

Truth be told, most of what we've seen during the spring/summer '11 catwalks will look old by the time it hits stores next year.

Considering how accessible the shows are these days (anyone can stream them live online or see the images just hours later), a girl can't help but want to shop directly off of the runways. It's enough to make one wonder when the retail cycle as a whole will catch up and make it possible for a shopper to do just that.

Top trends

The top three trends of spring/summer '11

- Long, diaphanous skirts and dresses
- Bold, pops of color

▶ Richard Lambertson, left, and John Truex pose with bags from their recently launched Tiffany Leather Collection at the flagship Fifth Avenue Tiffany & Co. store in New York.

Back on top of the fashion world

Lambertson and Truex partnering with Tiffany & Co

Richard Lambertson and John Truex are rock stars at the flagship Fifth Avenue Tiffany & Co. store. Their new collection of leather goods has men buying purple wallets and women lining up at mirrors to model bags from the design duo.

The boom feels good 1 1/2 years after they landed in bankruptcy court and their namesake line was sold to Tiffany.

The first few months at Tiffany was spent absorbing the atmosphere, Lambertson says, getting to know people who shop there and understanding the different demographics of a variety of locations.

▶ Tiffany Leather Collection

They still watch the way customers feel the leather, flip a bag over the shoulder and compare weights of various wallets. Even with their own expertise, there is still something to be learned from consumers, Lambertson says with a smile.

Truex never doubted their ability to create products that people want - and are willing to pay sometimes thousands of dollars for. A croc tote bag on the Tiffany website, for example, is listed at $8,500, while the small reversible suede shopper is $395.

Partnering with a famous retailer that already carved its place in the heart of the public offers an almost limitless marketplace, Truex says.

On a practical note, Truex explains that the bag's bright colour inside instead of the usual black or brown makes it easier to find things.

"Luxury isn't necessarily a brand name," says Truex. "It's the thought process and design details that matter. ... With something like a $1,200 price tag, we don't want you to carry it for only a season. We want to give you something for the cost."

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

What to look for

John Truex shares what to look for in a bag.

- Movement It should be one movement to put a bag in position on the body, whether it's worn on the shoulder, at the crook of the arm, over the body or in one's hands.
- The strap The length of the strap or handle should accommodate the season, with longer ones in the winter to allow for bulky coats or gloves.
- Manageable Hardware should be manageable with one hand. If it takes two to open a bag or get into a pocket, it's one too many.
- Essentials Credit cards, business cards or ID badges should slide in and out without a breaking-in period.

Make your bedroom a calming oasis

Debbie Travis shares some easy ways to turn your bedroom into a restful retreat

Designer draws inspiration from boutique hotels

When it comes to decorating, many of us tend to focus on the public spaces in our homes — living room, dining room and kitchen — often at the neglect our bedroom, the place where we recharge every night for the following day. The calmer and more serene and comfortable the bedroom environment, the better we sleep.

Debbie Travis — Canada's beloved design guru, who's new show All For One with Debbie Travis premieres this Sunday at 9 p.m. on CBC — shares some easy ways to turn your bedroom into what it should be: a calming oasis.

"I love doing bedrooms more than anything else," says Travis, adding that she derives bedroom design inspiration from the boutique hotel industry that has cropped up around the globe over the past decade. "These hotels are not the chains. They've built an industry on creating oasis, uniqueness and individuality, so you can derive so much inspiration for them."

According to Travis, the focal point of the room is the bed, so play that up. "I think it's a matter of turning your bed into something really amazing," she says, pointing to the current trend in oversized headboards covered with graphic, colourful fabric. "And of course, lovely crispy sheets," she adds.

A must for Travis is flanking the bed with side tables and lamps. Not only is this a matter of practicality, but visually it add symmetry and grounds the bed in the room. "A lot of people are against carpet, but it's coming back big time," says Travis, who is currently installing carpet in the bedrooms of her home in London, England. "They're just so cozy."

And when it comes to colour, Travis advises opting for richer colours like oranges and reds and pinks because "they give you a lovely glow and you want to look a bit sexy in the bedroom."

In All for One with Debbie Travis, the TV icon visits different Canadian towns where she surprises the locals with plans for a stunning home construction project as a reward for a community hero.

LUNCH RUSH

ANDREE LAU
LIFE@METRONEWS.CA

Picking up Italian groceries becomes much more pleasurable when you can sit down and enjoy a grilled panini, hot cappuccino and sweet gelato at Lina's Italian Market.

Using meats and cheeses from Lina's deli, half a dozen paninis are on offer for less than $8. The tantalizing Calabrese mixes hot salami with provolone and spicy marinated eggplant, while a roasted pork sandwich is also popular.

Basic thin-crust pizzas ($5.95) — from pepperoni and cheese to anchovy and olive — the size of dinner plates are heated to order. The underlying tomato sauce is sweet but overall, the pizza is a tad bland.

Seeing kids around me gleefully sink their teeth into creamy pastries, I end my lunch with a cannoli. The fried pastry tube stuffed with ricotta and chocolate is satisfyingly crunchy, sweet and creamy.

Ordering can be chaotic — separate lines for sandwiches, pizzas and gelato; one line for paying — but staff are friendly.

Recipe: Mushroom Focaccia

Focaccia is an Italian flatbread like pizza without the sauce and the dough is thicker. This oven version is topped with a mushroom mixture and Parmesan cheese.

Ingredients :

- 500 g (1 lb) pizza dough or frozen bread dough, thawed
- 45 ml (3 tbsp) olive oil, divided
- 375 ml (¾ lb) fresh mushrooms, thinly sliced (white, cremini, portobello, shiitake, oyster)
- 250 ml (1 cup) thinly sliced red or sweet onion
- 7 ml (1½ tsp) dried oregano or Italian mixed herbs
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 8 black olives, pitted and sliced (optional)
- Coarsely ground black pepper, to taste
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) grated Parmesan cheese

Mushroom Focaccia Preparation:

1. Lightly grease a baking sheet and place dough on it; with floured hands press out dough to 28-by-18-cm (11-by-7-inch) oval. Brush with 10 ml (2 tsp) of the oil and let rise in a warm place for 45 to 60 minutes.

2. Meanwhile, heat remaining oil in a large skillet; saute mushrooms and onion for 4 minutes or until moisture has evaporated; add oregano and garlic, cook for 1 more minute, then let cool slightly.

3. With thumb or end of wooden spoon, make dimpled surface on focaccia; top with mushroom mixture, pressing lightly into dough. Top with olives, if using, black pepper and Parmesan.

4. Bake in a 200 C (400 F) oven for 20 to 25 minutes or until bottom is lightly browned and crisp. Let cool slightly on wire rack. Cut in wedges or slices to serve. Makes 12 servings. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LOYALTY & REWARDS

REWARDS TO THE RESCUE!

Pay it forward, on points

Rewards programs are big on flexibility—that is, allowing members to buy almost anything they want. You can redeem points for all the discounted trips and concert tickets you can get; you can donate them to charity, too. But rewards programs can also help you find that middle ground between what's good for you and good for others.

It happens a lot. Take the example of a TD Canada Trust customer from Ottawa, asked to help organize a family reunion for his in-laws. His wife's relatives led busy lives and rarely gathered in one place to celebrate. However, they were committed to this event. All had booked their flights. All except one—a young cousin studying on the West Coast. Though he wanted to be there, he couldn't afford a plane ticket that would send him clear across the continent.

Our heroic TD customer wanted to pay for the boy's flight. But as someone newly married, even he found the price prohibitive. If he'd had to absorb those travel costs out-of-pocket, well, it just wouldn't have happened.

But there was another option: Points. Thanks to years of purchases on his TD First Class Travel Visa Infinite Card, he'd built up enough points to fund the entire flight, round-trip. The cousin was indeed able to visit his loved ones, reconnecting with some he hadn't seen in years.

What's the price of your loyalty?

We're a society of consumers. Men and women faced with choices every day—options about what to buy, where to go, who and what to see; what to wear; what to eat. We're lucky that way. But two things keep us from taking advantage of all that's available: money and time.

We need to make money, so we work hard. But because we work hard, we have trouble making time for everything else. That's why more and more Canadians are finding ways to transform their hard-earned cash and long hours into rewards, like discounted plane flights, appliances, gadgets and toys, free meals, tickets to almost any kind of show—the very things they had to do without. It's not alchemy; just the benefits of a good rewards program.

Today's banks, credit card companies, and retailers value nothing more than your patronage, and they're prepared to make it as attractive as possible. They'll offer you membership in programs that give you reason to seek out their products and services exclusively—in other words, perks. You'll be able earn points with every purchase, redeeming them for discounts on items and events, some of which would be pretty expensive otherwise. You may also get automatic discounts at resorts, car rental companies, theme parks, restaurants and other venues affiliated with the program. You may even be able to turn your points into a charitable donation.

Rewards programs are as Canadian as hockey and maple syrup. No one—and we mean NO ONE—earns points like a Canuck.

You've got the idea—now's the time to dream. Trips? You bet. Swing a golf club in Kelowna, B.C.; sip coffee in a Montreal café; take your loved one's hand and watch a beachside sunset in the Maritimes, all funded by the points you've earned. Staying closer to home? Use points to pick up dinner and a movie. Bring the kids, too, or entertain them indoors with the new video game console bought—that's right—on points. Buy a DVD. Get a facial. Get a tan. Do almost anything you want. You've earned it.

Earn and return: It's the Canadian way

Canucks love their points. We're some of the world's most thoughtful deal-makers, and if a loyalty program meets our needs and nets us some great rewards, we'll jump in. Why are Canadians—a supposedly cautious bunch—so crazy about these opportunities?

"Canadians are very savvy when it comes to rewards programs," explains Trevor Van Nest, vice-president of consumer card marketing for AMEX Bank of Canada. "They take time to understand the value of what they're getting; they can articulate what they're satisfied with, and what frustrates them."

The numbers bear this out. A new survey conducted by Angus Reid on behalf of American Express found that nearly 80 per cent of Canadians participate in a credit card rewards program. According to that survey, consumers ranked restriction-free redemption as the number-one consideration when choosing a rewards program.

nearly 80% of Canadians participate in a credit card rewards program

"Flexibility matters as much as value—that's the attitude Canadians express to us," says Van Nest. "And that attitude heavily influenced the design of our new Gold Rewards Card program."

Shawn Bloom, general manager for SCENE, sees Canada's point-mad culture to be the positive result of years of successful programs like Air Miles and Club Z. "Many Canadians have grown up with these programs, so they're comfortable joining new ones," he says. "But I do think expectations have changed over time. Canadians want to be rewarded more quickly; they want to earn points faster to reach their rewards goals. Our goal is to make that happen."

With over 2.5 million members in its program, including almost one million Scotiabank account holders, SCENE is tapping into Canadians' affinity for a good deal. AMEX and many other organizations are doing the same. Rewards programs are promising to be even bigger business in the years ahead.

Instant gratification

If something good's about to happen, why postpone it?

Loyalty and rewards programs aren't just for people saving up for the trip of a lifetime, or some expensive appliance they'll use every day but never have fun with. You can reward yourself tonight, if you really want to. Many Canadians prefer it that way.

"Some people join a reward program to pay for a specific thing," says Trevor Van Nest, vice-president of consumer card marketing for AMEX Bank of Canada. "So they might begin accumulating points for a trip, then let those points build up for years to fund it. Others see it as a 'fun wallet.' It gives them an opportunity to buy things they might not have considered if they had to dip into their paycheques for it. People think differently about their points—they're willing to fantasize a bit. They'll flip through our catalogue and imagine all the fun things they could buy. You don't wait years to buy items like that."

The SCENE program owes some of its success to this same attitude. SCENE's popularity among young Canadians, 50 per cent of whom are under 35, is due in part to members being able to earn and redeem rewards so quickly. SCENE rewards are priced starting at just 50 points; with Scotiabank products, many members get free movie rewards on a monthly basis.

"There's a program out there for every Canadian," says Shawn Bloom, SCENE's general manager. "But for most of us, the quicker we can earn our rewards, the happier we'll be."

The customer's always right.

Trevor Van Nest, AMEX Bank of Canada's vice-president of consumer card marketing

Dream big. Dream about… your mortgage?

Many people join rewards programs with dreams of flying far from home, held aloft by nothing but airplane wings and a ton of redeemed points. But some dreams—like owning your first house—can keep you pretty grounded. At least one program can help you have both.

CIBC's AeroMortgage program lets you earn one Aeroplan Mile for every dollar of regular mortgage interest you pay. "The first step is to get pre-approved," says Cheryl Longo, executive vice-president, CIBC card products. "The AeroMortgage is available for conventional and insured mortgages only, but if you like the flexibility to keep enjoying the things you love to do, including travel, it might just be right for you."

Burnett shaky in simulated game

A.J. Burnett got on the mound and plunked Greg Golson on an arm. Then he whacked Austin Kearns.

Burnett's simulated game was a hit — twice — yesterday as he prepared for his start against Texas in the American League Championship Series.

"It's different when they're our guys. They know I didn't mean to do it. But it's still not a good feeling," the struggling starting pitcher said. Burnett was dropped from the New York Yankees' rotation for the AL division series against Minnesota. But manager Joe Girardi doesn't want to bring back C.C. Sabathia, Andy Pettitte and Phil Hughes on short rest for the latter part of the best-of-seven series against the Rangers, which starts tomorrow in Texas.

So Burnett will start Game 4, his first game action since Oct. 2. He threw 80 pitches in the simulated game, with Girardi and pitching coach Dave Eiland watching part of it from behind the mound. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Problems continue to pile up for Favre

Elbow injury could force Vikings quarterback to miss Sunday's game

Brett Favre's latest problem is his elbow.

With the NFL investigating whether he sent lewd photos of himself to a Jets game hostess while he played for New York in 2008, Favre said yesterday that his cherished, league-record streak of 289 straight starts could be in danger if the pain in his right elbow gets any worse.

The 41-year-old quarterback did not practice with Minnesota yesterday, preferring to rest the tendinitis that flared up noticeably Monday night in the Vikings' 29-20 loss to the Jets.

"I don't want to play just to play," Favre said.

"It's kind of a funny injury. It could flare up and get worse."

It's even more adversity for Favre this season, which so far has been anything but a repeat of last year's charmed run to the NFC title game.

Commissioner Roger Goodell said Tuesday there is no timetable for completing an investigation into a Deadspin report that Favre sent inappropriate messages and photos to Jenn Sterger in 2008.

And the Vikings are off to a 1-3 start heading into what they call a must-win game against Dallas Sunday. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The good, the bad, the 49ers

After five weeks of football, it's time to recognize the best and worst of the NFL season so far

The Chiefs

Overachievers

OK, who out there predicted through five weeks that the Buccaneers, Chiefs and Bears would be on top of their divisions? We know, all of them could (and likely will) fall back into the pack, but for now, they are the true success stories of 2010.

Underachievers

Going the other way are two of 2009's elite teams, the Cowboys and Vikings, and one predicted by many to be a playoff qualifier this season, the 49ers. Dallas and Minnesota are killing their chances with silly mistakes, while San Francisco has fallen to 0-5 through poor communication, inconsistent play and some downright awful coaching.

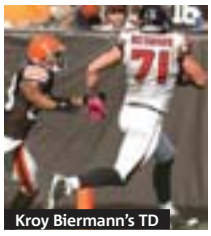
Anquan Boldin

Best additions

New Ravens WR Anquan Boldin is on pace for almost 90 catches and double-digit TDs. The addition of dynamic DE Julius Peppers has made Chicago's linebackers that much more effective. The Jets brought in LaDainian Tomlinson to complement Shonn Greene, but LT looks like the vintage back of a few years ago, when he was destroying defences and setting records.

Worst additions

Arizona somehow thought Derek Anderson could be a facsimile of Kurt Warner when it signed him as a free agent. Anderson already has lost his job to undrafted rookie QB Max Hall. Cincinnati gave Antonio Bryant a four-year, $28-million contract, but the WR didn't make it out of the pre-season. Denver went for defensive lineman Jarvis Green for $3.55 million guaranteed, and he also didn't make it to the regular season.



Kroy Biermann's TD

Best play

Anyone who hasn't seen Kroy Biermann's hat trick at the end of the Falcons' win last Sunday in Cleveland should head directly to YouTube. The defensive end leaped to tip a pass, caught the deflection with a headfirst dive, rolled on the ground, alertly jumped to his feet and outran Browns players for a spectacular touchdown in the fourth quarter.

Worst play

Cowboy Marc Colombo spiked the ball after teammate Jason Witten scored a tying touchdown late in the fourth quarter, then failed to land on his feet after a follow-up, mid-air chest bump. Colombo somersaulted across the end zone, drawing a flag for excessive celebration. The penalty was assessed on the ensuing kickoff, which led to a long return followed by a short touchdown that gave the Titans a 34-27 victory.

Today's horoscope

For today's crossword answers and for expanded horoscopes, go to metronews.ca

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 You have kept your emotions in check long enough and if you don't let off some steam soon you may well explode. Find a constructive way to ease the pressure.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 Stand up for what you believe, even though it brings you into conflict with people who don't share your principles. Be aware though that in their own way they are just as principled as you.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 The Sun in Libra makes you want to speed things up, but not everyone wants to be pushed so hard or so fast. Today, if you want to move ahead you will have to do so on your own.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 When dealing with family feuds it is always a good idea to stay neutral and that is very much the position you need to adopt today.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug.23 Don't worry if you have fallen behind in your tasks because you will catch up later when your mood shifts and work starts to look attractive again. Be aware of your physical and emotional rhythms.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24- Sept. 22 If someone is taking advantage of you then you must do something about it. Don't worry that you might come on too strong and cause a rift that can never be healed. If it happens it happens.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 You may think that you can cut corners and bend rules and get clean away with it, but is that the truth? Chances are it's wishful thinking. Chances are you're kidding yourself.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 Just over a week from now a new solar year will begin and all the fears and doubts that have been holding you back will simply fade away.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 If you are dissatisfied with your lot that's a good sign. It means you are aware that your life is not as fulfilling as it could be. Use that dissatisfaction to motivate yourself to make changes. And make them big changes.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 Strive to stay at least two steps ahead of your rivals. How do you do that? By making sure you are better informed than they are.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 You are on a winning streak and that streak has some way to run, but if you are smart you will also be looking ahead and thinking about how you can consolidate your gains.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20 It may be painfully apparent that you have been living beyond your means and must cut back on what you spend, but don't go from one extreme to the other and deny yourself everything that you enjoy.
